Bradley A. King, Esq
King Legal Group, LLC

Q

I'm a general contractor and I remodel homes. I found a general form contract online that I use for construction work. Should I have an attorney review my contract?

A

Yes, a law was enacted in 2009 called the Home Improvement Consumer Protection Act, which places strict standards on construction contracts. If not followed, the law can make your contract unenforceable. For example, the contract will be unenforceable if it does not contain the projected start and completion dates for the project, a detailed description of the work and materials to be used, which cannot be changed without a signed "change order," and a notice that the homeowner has a right to cancel the contract within 3 days after signing, among other requirements.
